

Indian River Genealogical Society

P.O. Box 1850
Vero Beach, FL 32961
www.irgs.org

PRESS RELEASE

A Gaggle of Google

Paul Enchelmayer, who retired recently as the Manager of Information Systems Development for the City of Orlando, will be the featured speaker at the Indian River Genealogical Society's February 9, 2010 general meeting. In his presentation titled "A Gaggle of Google", Mr. Enchelmayer will explain how amateur genealogists can better use the popular internet search tool in their research.

IRGS general meetings are held monthly on second Tuesdays, September through May, at 9:30 AM in the large first floor conference room of the Indian River County Main Library, 1600 21st Street, Vero Beach. Following a brief business session, refreshments will be served. The program will begin about 10:30 AM. All general meetings of the IRGS are free and open to the public.

Mr. Enchelmayer, a popular guest speaker, has made presentations at over 20 genealogy societies in Florida and at the Florida State Genealogical Society's annual meeting. For four decades, Mr. Enchelmayer worked in the applied technology fields of computer education and training, industrial education, photography, and audio and video production. Mr. Enchelmayer holds a BA in Broadcasting from Southern Illinois University and a MA in Business from the University of Miami.

For more information about the Indian River Genealogical Society and to learn about the annual Valentine Genealogy Seminar, please check the website www.irgs.org. For questions about the meeting, please call (772) 4924012.

Suzy Bromwell, Public Relations Chair
sbromwell@gmail.com