PRESS RELEASE
August 31, 2009

The Indian River Genealogical Society is pleased to announce its first meeting of the current season will be held Wednesday, September 16, 2009 at 9:30 AM in the large first floor meeting room of the Indian River County Main Library, 1600 21st Street, Vero Beach.

Debbe Hagner, a specialist in German Research, will present the program titled "HOW TO DO GERMAN RESEARCH". In addition to a BA from the College of Applied Science and Technology in Rochester, NY, Ms Hagner received a Diploma in Family History from Brigham Young University. Although her specialty is German research, the tips Ms Hagner shares will apply to general European research also.

All general meetings of the IRGS are free and open to the public. Following a brief business session, refreshments will be served. The program will begin about 10:45 AM. For questions please call (772) 492-4012. For more information about the society, check our website: www.irgs.org.
